Will Donald Trump or Hilary Clinton be the next American president?

Will Donald Trump or Hilary Clinton be the next American president? It's an interesting question that's got a lot of Americans talking!

It looks like billionaire Trump will be the Republican Party nominee after the other contenders dropped out. Critics once said 'it could never happen' (Trump being elected) but so far he has proved them all wrong.

If Clinton is chosen she will have a hard fight between herself and Trump. She wants to break down barriers, yet she is establishment that many Americans currently dislike.

Clinton though currently appears to be adopting a more centralist policy. She wants to win over working class women, who may be put off by Donald Trump.

It'll be interesting to see whether Hilary chooses Bernie Sanders as her running mate to bridge the Democratic divide. Sanders has been promoting a more socialist policy in his attempt to secure his nomination.

'The Donald' as Trump is known, has tapped into America's isolationist mood. He is hugely popular. Known for his big mouth, he is not afraid to use it to silence others. He has also bitterly divided Republicans.

Many senior Republicans, including former Presidents George W Bush and his father George HW Bush, Mitt Romney and the Republican speaker of the House of Representatives Paul Ryan, have said that they cannot vote for Trump.

Trump wants to build a wall on the border with Mexico. He plans to deport many illegal immigrants back across the border. He wants to ban Muslims entering the USA.

Trump wants interest rates to stay low. He wants the minimum wage to go up and he wishes to increase military spending. Trump said he would replace Democrat Janet Yellen at the Federal Reserve with a Republican.

Donald Trump wants a big expansion of infrastructure spending. He also wants 40% trade tariffs imposed. He wants to abandon Obamacare.

Hilary Clinton represents Wall Street. She has been under attack for her email scandal. She has suffered the baggage of the Lewinsky legacy. Americans though have seen Hilary reinvent herself more than once. She could actually be an impressive president.

Many Americans though are tired of President Obama whom they regard as a weak president, especially with his foreign policy. 'Yes we can' is perhaps now 'but we didn't'. A vast majority of Americans want to see decisive leadership, action and change.

If Trump is elected will he do what he says: make America great again? The alternative could see America's first woman president to hold the office of president since it was established in 1789.
