The 4 page 60 minute ESL British English lesson – 10/10/16

Autumn

Today, let's talk about autumn. What exactly is autumn? It is a season that follows summer and is before winter. Autumn starts in Britain on the 23rd September. It is on this day that daylight and night are the same length of time. The nights now get longer and the days shorter.

Autumn is probably the most colourful time of year. It is when the leaves change colour. Many leaves turn into vivid autumn red, yellow and brown colours that so many people love to see. Autumn is also conker season when the conkers fall from Horse Chestnut trees.

Autumn is the time of falling leaves. Many leaves are blown off the trees. Often they form a magnificent carpet of different coloured leaves on the ground. It is a sign that winter is on its way!

In America autumn is known as Fall. The word 'Fall', which means 'fall of the leaf', or 'fall of the year', is actually an old 16th century English word. It was used in North America by English emigrants. While Fall became a commonly used word in the USA, in England it became obsolete.

Autumn is a time of wild berries, like blackberries and elderberries. Farmers plough their fields in readiness for the following year's harvest. In many countries Harvest Festivals take place in schools and churches. It is also pumpkin season for those who love pumpkin pie or Halloween!

In Europe temperatures turn cooler. There may be an Indian Summer. Autumn in Europe is usually windy and rainy, with misty and foggy mornings in November. There is also some early morning dew. Autumn sees birds migrate south to warmer climates, like Africa, where they will stay until the spring. Squirrels store up with acorns in readiness of winter. Other animals, like dormice, prepare to hibernate.
