A brand new state-of-the-art multi-functional shopping mall opened in Bratislava recently. The new Eurovea Galleria opened its doors to the public for the first time during the last weekend in March. Located in a prime location on the Danube riverfront Eurovea has already become a major draw. In fact, many would say it is the new centre of entertainment, leisure and high street shopping in the Slovak capital. With more than 150 shops the three-level complex, which has a glass domed roof, is cleverly designed. Over the opening weekend shoppers were treated to many introductory offers. Shops include many top brand names for one to nose around. These include British stores like Next, Debenhams and Marks & Spencer. The latter having real British food, which in central Europe is a godsend for any expat's living there! Other famous brand names include Tommy Hilfiger, Peek & Cloppenburg, New Yorker, Penny Black and H&M.

Shoppers can relax in the many bars and cafes that are located inside and along the new promenade that has already become a Mecca for all. There is a fitness centre to work out at and a brand new cinema complex with roof cafés including a Jacuzzi to dip into! Integral parts of Eurovea include a two-hectare riverfront park with promenade and a new public square. The new Sheraton Hotel, that is practically adjacent to the new Slovak National Theatre, is also situated here. Adjacent to Bratislava's historical centre the new Eurovea combines the most sophisticated office, residential, leisure and retail components with plenty of underground parking. The Eurovea complex offers a brand new dynamic destination for people living, working and shopping throughout the region. It offers businesses high quality office space in the heart of Europe. One can even buy high class flats with panoramic views. Eurovea has been designed in a way to make it become the new commercial heart of the city. It will offer a real cosmopolitan lifestyle.
